

AutoVinco Receives Platinum Support from International Business Leaders *F1 in Schools World Finals 2018

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. – June 21, 2018 – The John and Suzanne Campion Family Foundation, through their motors-sports company, CJJ Motorsports, has announced today that they will serve as the Platinum Partner for Irish group AutoVinco when it competes at the Formula 1 (F1) in Schools STEM Challenge World Finals 2018 from Sept. 9-13, 2018 in Singapore.

As part of their support – they have created the branded mark: CJJ Motorsport AutoVinco. AutoVinco, from St. Brigid’s College in Loughrea, Co. Galway in Ireland, are a determined group of students who have come together to become the 2018 F1 in Schools World Champions. They consider their team to be “...a unique blend of innovation, flair and ambition allied with a vast array of knowledge and experience of the F1 in Schools competition,” according to their website.

The Campions have a long history of empowering students around the world through mentorship and financial support, helping improve their skills and harnessing their ambition, collaboration and enthusiasm for team competition.

“AutoVinco is made up of an impressive group of young, ambitious students who are leading the way in engineering, science, business and innovative thinking,” said John Campion. “I am honored to give back to these students, fellow Irishmen, because of their tenacity and determination to succeed is so keenly evident. I know they will make Ireland proud.”

For Suzanne Campion, this is also more than just a financial sponsorship. Suzanne’s grandparents hail from Galway, Ireland, which is the home of St. Brigid’s College. “To see the passion in these student’s eyes is truly motivating and something that we can all learn from,” Suzanne commented. “I am so gratified to support the youth from where my grandparents proudly called home.”

The F1 in Schools World Finals is widely regarded as the premier global STEM competition for second-level students, as 60 teams from almost 45 countries will compete in this year’s final. The competition is supported by F1 Motorsport and will run in conjunction with the F1 2018 Singapore Airlines Singapore Grand Prix. AutoVinco, recently named F1 in Schools Irish National Champions, will represent the country in the upcoming global competition.

“We have always aimed to partner with Ireland’s most accomplished businesspeople from around the world. We structure our partnerships in such a way that we are not only receiving necessary resources; we are also engaging with them to enhance our learning experiences,” said AutoVinco Team Manager Ruth Conway. “As a team, we believe the Campion’s sponsorship and passion for our success has equipped us to achieve our collective goal of going into Singapore and winning gold for Ireland.”
